CIA Drops NYU Interview

By JUDSON HAND

In the midst of the furor didn't have enough recruiters over its student affiliations, the Central Intelligence Agency has cancelled a scheduled appearance to recruit at New York University today.

A spokesman for the university said students interested in joining the CIA could contact the agency and interviews would be arranged off campus.

"More students than expected showed interest," explained a spokesman for NYU. "The agency apparently decided it available to handle the volume."

The recruiters were to have shown up at 11:30 a.m. on the university's Washington Square campus.

The appearance had been heralded in headlines in the student newspaper a month ago.

Student demonstrations and picketing against the CIA, similar to demonstrations twice in recent weeks on the Columbia University campus, had been expected today at NYU.
